

Guiding your under 5s

"playing, learning, growing for our positive future"

Your under five is intelligent, open, aware and watching YOU!

Would you like the opportunity to come and spend some time learning and relearning how you can be more loving, caring, playful, positive and effective as a father in those all important under five years. These are the years where fathers can help guide their children to be peaceful, loving, kind, compassionate human beings.

This will be a safe, fun, positive, inspiring and creative workshop where you will be given tools you can use at home. And we know you will see an immediate positive difference in your child/ren, your home environment and yourself by using them.

This workshop will empower you to be the best dad you can be with simple and effective play, learning and growing techniques and tools anyone can use.
